NAVAL PARLEY IS SHARING INTEREST WITH STIMSON NOW

FRANCE MAKES FIRST MOVE TO RE-OPEN NEGOTIA- TIONS ON SUBJECT

ROME, July 9.—(P)—Colonel Henry L. Stimson, American Secretary of State, had a long talk this morning with Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, the first of numerous statements whom he will meet while he is in Europe. There was no official statement regarding the conference, but it was revealed, touched on the Hoover Memorandum and probably included discussion of new proposals which France is understood to have made regarding a naval accord with Italy.

The conversations also prepared the ground for Colonel Stimson's meeting with Premier Mussolini this afternoon. That conference, it is expected, will deal primarily with disarmament, concerning which the Premier's views are said to coincide on the whole with those of the United States.

If a Franco-Italian accord should develop from resumption of negotiations between France and Italy this would be an important step in the direction of disarmament, and Colonel Stimson and the Premier, it is thought, are likely to discuss the effects of such an accord on next year's disarmament conference.

Last March a tri-partite naval accord between France, Italy and Great Britain was announced, but in May it developed that there had been differences of interpretation regarding some phases of the agreement which France considered by passing importance the standing bloc was the variance in views regarding the French replacement of over-age tonnage. Originally the British and the Italians contended that no replacement tonnage would be laid down between 1934 and 1936 except for vessels actually reaching the age limit between 1937 and 1939.

It was conceded that France should retain her over-age vessels until at a conference in 1935 it should be decided to what extent she could build replacements. The last French proposal was that she should not begin construction before 1935, but since, she insisted on her right to a free hand should that conference fail to reach an agreement.

The British counter proposal, which received support from Italy, was that the French could build new tonnage after 1935 but only to the extent and at the rate to be agreed upon at a conference in that year. Failing in agreement at that conference, France would remain bound to reconstruct tonnage as provided in the London treaty.

ROME, July 9.—(P)—The possibility of the reopening of Franco-Italian naval negotiations shared interest today with a conference between Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and Premier Mussolini.

FRENCH RECEIVE GERMANY'S PLEDGE AGAINST ARMAMENT

MUCH IMPORTANCE IS AT- TACHED TO VISIT STIM- SON TO EUROPE

PARIS, July 9.—(P)—France had Germany's pledge today that the savings realized from the Hoover memorandum would not be utilized to build armaments.

Ambassador Von Hoesch handed to Premier Laval the text of Chancellor Brüning's recent statement to the United States to the effect that Germany would use the benefits of the holiday to reconstruct her economic life.

The premier issued a communiqué saying that Germany had agreed on her own initiative in the manner and had "expressed her happiness over the conclusion of the Franco-American agreement."

Representations of the secretary of State Stimson on July 15 are under way. Arrangements have been made for a luncheon at the foreign office to be attended by members of the cabinet and a dinner at the American embassy.

Shell To Offer Six Cents Oil On State Lands

AUSTIN, July 9.—(P)—J. H. Walker, state land commissioner, said today the state would refuse to sell production from its leases in the shallow area of the Yates pool in Pecos county for the six cents a barrel it had been offered by the Shell Petroleum corporation.

The Shell company planned to reduce the price to six cents tomorrow. It stated that "this crude when compared with other West Texas crude at new posted price has refining value of only three cents per barrel. The company said it felt the proposed price would be only temporary."

POST AND GATTY FLYING TOWARD OKLAHOMA HOMES

WIVES NARROWLY ESCAPE INJURY AT COLUMBUS WEDNESDAY NIGHT

CHICKASHA, Okla., July 9.—(P)—Wiley Post, one-time Oklahoma farm boy, and his Australian navigator, Harold Gatty, brought their glidering airplane, "Winnie Mae," to a happy landing here this afternoon.

ST. LOUIS, July 9.—(P)—The Winnie Mae, world gliding plane, landed here last night. Wiley Post, passed over Lambert-St. Louis field here at 11:08 a. m. today, en route to Oklahoma. Post and Gatty dipped the plane to salute the field and flew on. About a mile behind was the plane bearing their wives.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 9.—(P)—Undertaken by an accident in landing here last night, Mrs. Wiley Post and Mrs. Harold Gatty, wives of the round-the-world fliers, hopped off for Chickasha, Okla., at 9 o'clock this morning.

The women escaped injury last night when their plane ground-looped and was badly damaged. A sister ship of the "Winnie Mae," the round the world plane, took the women to St. Louis. It was rushed here last night from Indianapolis.

As the women took off their husbands were superintending the refueling and warming up of the plane. The plane was to take the aviators replaced a door handle on the Winnie Mae. The handle disappeared during the night, probably taken by some souvenir hunter.

Chicago Officials Regret Arrest Of Mexican Diplomat

CHICAGO, July 9.—(P)—Regret for the arrest of Adolfo Dominguez, acting Mexican consul in Chicago, was expressed today by Chief Justice John H. Sonstebjorn of the municipal court.

Commenting on the jailing last Tuesday of the acting consul by order of Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green for contempt of court because he allegedly created a disturbance in court, Judge Sonstebjorn declared:

"Consuls and vice-consuls are granted immunity against proceedings in state courts, which immunity is granted as a matter of policy and not because of any treaty. Mr. Dominguez is entitled to this immunity. I am having a full investigation made and feel quite sure that I can adjust the matter to the satisfaction of all parties."

Dominguez was released on his own recognizance. Meanwhile, United States and Mexican diplomatic circles were marking time pending completion of an investigation by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson. The governor was asked to make the inquiry by the state department at Washington.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(P)—Ambassador Teitel of Mexico on instruction of his government filed a formal protest at the state department today against the imprisonment in Chicago of Adolfo Dominguez, acting consul.

ONE INJURED AND MUCH PROPERTY IS DAMAGED BY STORM

THIRTY DEGREE DROP IN TEMPERATURE; RAIN SPOT- TED OVER COUNTY

A heavy wind of almost storm proportions resulted in the injury of one person; totally destroyed several buildings; considerably damaged others and damaged many trees in Corsicana about four o'clock Wednesday afternoon, after which the temperature dropped 30 degrees in less than 45 minutes, and rain fell in Corsicana and some parts of Navarro county. No serious damage was reported in any sections of the county.

Roy Shields, a Daily Sun delivery boy, was blown down by the wind on West Second avenue, and suffered a severe gash in his head. Unconscious for some time, he was rushed to a doctor's office, where several stitches were taken in his head, and later taken to his home.

Much Property Damaged. It was roughly estimated that well over $3,500 worth of property was damaged by the wind. The properties of Roy Canby, including a garage and filling station, a blacksmith and welding shop, and one residence, located on South Seventh street received probably the worst damage inflicted by the storm. Canby's estimated loss was $2,000, and was not covered by insurance.

The skating rink, housed in a tent, near Mineral Plunge, on South Twelfth street received damages to the tent top and floor estimated to be almost $1,000, and window sashes in the Mineral Plunge pavilion estimated to cost about $50, were blown out.

Show Windows Wrecked. Show windows, signs and fixtures in the McClallan Store, on North Beaton were damaged to the approximate extent of $250, and two show windows in the Beaton Motor Company building costing about $150, were demolished by the wind. No insurance was carried.

About 12 squares of roofing on both the north and south sides of the Navarro Cotton Oil Mill, which cost about $150 were blown off, while the corrugated steel roofing on the Corsicana Compress warehouse was almost practically destroyed, but no estimate was made on the warehouse damage.

It was reported to be covered by tornado insurance. The wind entered the city limits

JUSTICE BAILEY PONDERS FATE OF ALBERT B. FALL

FRANK HOGAN MOVES SUS- PENSION OF SENTENCE BE- CAUSE OF HEALTH

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(P)—Frank Hogan, attorney for Albert B. Fall, moved in the District of Columbia supreme court today that Fall's jail sentence of one year be suspended because of his physical condition.

Justice Bailey took under advisement the government's request. Just previously, Atlee Pomerene, special prosecutor in the oil case, had asked Justice Bailey to hand down the mandate for execution of the sentence on the former secretary of the interior.

Hogan reviewed the illness which Fall had during the oil trial growing out of the oil leases and also presented affidavits by three physicians who had examined a recent report on Fall's physical condition by army surgeons in Texas.

The physicians were Dr. Frank Leech, Dr. Thomas J. Clayton, and Dr. W. D. Tewksbury, all of Washington.

The report by the army physicians said Fall was suffering from hardening of the arteries and heart trouble, as well as arthritis, chronic tuberculosis and chronic indigestion. The affidavits of the Washington physicians agreed that on the basis of the report by army surgeons, imprisonment would endanger Fall's life.

Government counsel had announced previously that they felt after an examination of the report by the army physicians that Fall was able to come to Washington to begin his sentence.

Justice Bailey also had before him a motion by Frank Hogan, Fall's attorney, that the prison sentence be suspended because of Fall's physical condition.

Pomerene read a memorandum from Assistant Attorney General Youngquist which expressed the opinion that Fall could be committed to some other jail than the one in the District of Columbia. He replied that he seemed mandatory that Fall be brought here to serve unless the sentence was suspended.

Justice Bailey asked counsel to cite him authorities on whether he had the power to amend the sentence to send Fall to another

MID-CONTINENT OPERATORS CONSIDER SHUT DOWN UNTIL PRICE BETTER; SOME CLOSED

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 9.—(P)—Shutting down of oil wells in the Oklahoma City field was under way today despite the fact a meeting of operators for considering the proposal is not scheduled before 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Anderson-Richard Production Company, with 26 producers and a potential of 392,962 barrels daily, issued orders that after today's production all wells would be shut in. The wells would be shut in by the Denig Oil Company, with four wells and a potential of 108,813 barrels; the Denver Producing and Refining, with four wells and a potential of 16,728 barrels; and the Plains Petroleum, with one well which has been shut down for more than a week and company officials assert they will not go back on production until prices improve.

Phillips Petroleum was understood to be contemplating issuing an order for a shut down after today's production. Executives of the T. E. Slick interests were in conference.

The I. T. I. O. has had wells in the time horizon shut in for some time. Only two companies were out-spoken against the proposed general shutdown—the Champlin Refining Company of Tulsa and the Sinclair Oil & Gas Company. Executives of both companies asserted they need crude to continue operation of their refineries and that the Oklahoma City field is their chief source of supply.

WICHITA, Kas., July 9.—(P)—Certain that the new price schedule for crude oil will be a boon to the oil industry, the Sinclair Refining Company would also be applied to Kansas production, Marvin Lee, president of the Kansas Independent Petroleum Association, today considered the oil price situation.

The cut of 15 cents a barrel posted yesterday, would be a boon to the oil industry. Similar reductions in Kansas. Considerable Kansas production, they point out, is taken by Sinclair. Declaring it time for a price to be set, he said that the oil business is in a state of collapse and that it is time to remove Kansas and Oklahoma oil from the market until a "fair price" could be had for it. To attain this, he would urge, he said, that Kansas and Oklahoma producers join in placing their production in the hands of a board of control "with power to sell it ratably and at a fair price."

The governor will ask the legislature to enact laws strengthening the power of the oil regulatory commission. He also planned to ask for a new commission to deal with the subject and to handle the conservation of oil.

HUGH S. GIBSON TO REPRESENT U. S. AT LONDON MEETING

ACTING SECRETARY CAS- TLES SAYS MORATORIUM MORALLY IN FORCE

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(P)—President Hoover today designated Hugh S. Gibson, American Ambassador to Belgium, as American representative of the experts committee which will work out details of the intergovernmental debt moratorium.

Acting Secretary Castle of the State Department in announcing the designation and the ambassador would serve as an observer.

Frederick Livesey, reparations expert of the state department, will be sent to London to assist Gibson.

Castle expressed the opinion a satisfactory arrangement would be found for the suspension of Germany's conditional reparations payments due July 15 so that action would not be considered technically in default of its debts.

The acting secretary said he had made it clear in his discussions with the other nations that the United States considered President Hoover's one year moratorium plan morally in force and that Germany would not be required to make July 15 payments.

GERMANY REPORTED SEEKING NEW LOAN FOR STABILIZATION

SYNDICATE IS BACKING REICHSBANK IN LATEST EFFORTS

LONDON, July 9.—(P)—Hans Luther, head of the German Reichsbank, paid a flying visit to London today and after a two hour conference with the ambassador at the German embassy, left for Paris.

He left Berlin last night without announcing his plans and crossed the channel by airplane today. His itinerary, it is understood, will take him to both Paris and Brussels, before he goes to Basel next Monday for a meeting of the directors of the Bank of International Settlements.

His visit here brought no statement from any of the officials concerned, but it was understood that Dr. Luther is visiting the financial centers in an effort to negotiate a long-term credit of between $250,000,000 and $400,000,000 to shore up Germany's financial structure, weakened by heavy foreign withdrawals in the past two weeks.

Only preliminary discussions took place here, it was understood, but these constituted an effort to induce the Bank of England to join private bankers in the United States and the Bank of France in underwriting the loan to Germany.

It was learned in authoritative quarters that nothing but the preliminaries will be undertaken here and that the loan, if it is granted, would be contracted at Paris. It was so that Andrew W. Mellon, American secretary of the treasury, might participate in the conversations.

One reason for Dr. Luther's uncommunicative attitude while he was here was believed to be the injunction to silence which was placed upon Chancellor Brüning after the conversations with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald at Chequers recently.

LONDON, July 9.—(P)—Hans Luther, president of the German Reichsbank, arrived at Croydon field from Berlin this afternoon and hurried immediately to London for conferences with banking officials concerning a loan to Germany.

He denied himself to scores of newspapermen who sought to interview him at the airport, and officials of the Bank of England and the German embassy said

FARM BOARD MAY ISSUE STATEMENT POLICY IN FUTURE

CARL WILLIAMS ANNOUNCES REQUESTS EXCHANGES ARE STUDIED

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(P)—The farm board may issue a statement before July 31 outlining a definite policy for handling stabilization supplies of cotton during the coming crop season.

Carl Williams, cotton member of the board, said today that Southern cotton exchanges, Savannah, Little Rock and Memphis, have requested a new statement of policy to relieve market uncertainty. He said his appeals were under consideration. Williams added he thought it would be in the best interest of farmers and brokers to outline a definite policy as was done in the case of wheat holdings.

Williams estimated the world carry-over of American cotton on August 1 would be 8,700,000 bales, an increase of approximately 2,000,000 bales over last year.

Williams disclosed that conversations have been in progress by official spokesmen for the sale of stabilization wheat to Germany and Great Britain, but said nothing tangible had resulted.

He added that the Russian trading organization, Amtorg, had petitioned the board for the purchase on credit of stabilization cotton in the amount of 25,000 to 30,000 bales.

The stabilization corporation, Williams said, would not consider selling cotton to Russia because of the embargo imposed by Russia by the United States.

Williams said the agitation of cotton traders against farm board holdings had assumed a character similar to the recent demands of the grain trade for a definite statement of policy. The trade contended the holdings constituted an extreme burden on the market.

Live Wire Is Fatal To Man At Greenville

GREENVILLE, July 9.—(P)—Luther Calvery, 54-year-old electrician, was electrocuted today at the village of Penial, one mile north of here, while trying to locate line trouble caused by yesterday's storm.

Calvery, a former mayor of Penial, touched a wire hanging from a pole and was knocked to the ground. He died within a few minutes. A Purdie who was assisting Calvery, was severely shocked when he attempted to pull Calvery loose from the wire.

EX-CONGRESSMAN R. L. HENRY FOUND DYING THURSDAY

UNSUCCESSFUL CANDIDATE FOR SENATOR DISCOVERED FATALLY WOUNDED

HOUSTON, July 9.—(P)—Former Congressman R. L. Henry, 67, died today of a bullet wound in the head. He was found wounded this morning and a pistol was found nearby, in his home.

HOUSTON, July 9.—(P)—Former Congressman R. L. Henry was found shot and perhaps fatally wounded in his home this morning.

Mr. Henry, who campaigned unsuccessfully in the last senatorial election for the Democratic nomination to the United States senate, for many years was congressman from the Eleventh district which includes Waco.

A pistol with one bullet discharged was found on the floor beside the wounded lawyer.

Dr. M. L. Graves, the family physician, said the shooting was accidental.

The bullet entered the right temple and ranged upward in the head.

Mr. Henry was defeated several years ago for re-election to congress by Tom Connally of Marlin, who now is the junior United States senator from Texas.

Henry took an active part in the Alfred E. Smith campaign in Texas in 1928. His unsuccessful senatorial campaign was based largely upon the contention that a change should be made in the national prohibition laws.

Mr. Henry was graduated from Southwestern University at Georgetown, Texas, in 1885. He went, then, to the University of Texas, from which he took the degree of Bachelor of Laws. He returned to his former home, Texarkana, and began the practice of law. He served as mayor of that city for one term.

He was appointed an assistant attorney general under the late former Governor Culberson and later ran for the office of attorney general, but was defeated.

He removed to Waco and in 1896 was elected congressman from the Eleventh district.

Captain Lucey Issues Appeal All Operators

LONGVIEW, July 9.—(P)—Capt. J. L. Lucey, leader in the move to solve the H. S. Jones Texas oil prororation, today issued an appeal to operators and producers to observe the railroad commission's new prororation order in an effort to get the crude oil market in East Texas reestablished during July.

He pointed out that there are 175 producers unconnected, which have never run oil, more than half of these are in the Lathrop pool. He said the move was considering calling a meeting of owners of these properties for the purpose of working out plans to obtain pipeline connections.

The new prororation order, Capt. Lucey said, was superior to the old potential prororation basis. The new plan, which went into effect July 2, is based on the unit plan. He admitted it had imperfections but he said it was the best thing that has been effective, but urged that it be observed through July, pending agreement on a more permanent conservation plan.

Midland Woman Is Arrested; Charged With Death Another

MIDLAND, July 9.—(P)—Culminating a week-long investigation into the fatal shooting of Mrs. Lillie May Bucklewee, 25-year-old divorcee, officers today had arrested Mrs. Jack Mayfield, of Midland, and charged her with murder for the slaying.

Mrs. Bucklewee was shot at the home of her parents on the night of June 26 while dressing to go to a dance. A charge of shot from a shotgun ripped through a screen door from the darkness outside and struck her in the side. She was instantly killed.

Officers said the case has been extremely baffling due to there apparently having been no witnesses to the shooting.

FAILURE REFUEL OVER SOLOMON IS END TOKYO FLIGHT

ROBBINS - JONES LIKELY TO MAKE SECOND ATTEMPT IMMEDIATELY

SOLOMON, Alaska, July 9.—(P)—The projected Seattle-Tokyo flight of Reg. L. Robbins and Harold S. Jones, Texas aviators, ended here at 3:50 a. m. (8:50 a. m. C. S. T.) when unfavorable weather forced the plane down, unable to make a final refueling contact for the long dash.

Bumpy weather made it impossible for the two ships to establish contact long enough to transfer enough gasoline to the tanks of the monoplane "Port Worth" the fliers said. The refueling ship expected them to return to Tokyo came down.

The fliers were convinced the weather prospects on the hazardous route over Bering sea to Tokyo was bad and for that reason gave up the flight.

Expect Another Trial FORT WORTH, July 9.—(P)—Mrs. Reg. L. Robbins is sure her husband and H. S. Jones will again immediately to fly non-stop between Seattle and Tokyo.

When informed that the fliers had been forced down, she said she expected them to return to Seattle and being the second attempt at once.

"They talked that over before they left Port Worth," she said. "And they decided to keep trying until they made it."

Mrs. Robbins admitted she felt "easier" that the men were safe on the ground, but added that she was disappointed they could not continue.

They landed only 20 minutes after they had refueled over Nome for the fifth time since the fliers reached Fairbanks.

At last, at Nome stayed up all night to witness what was expected to be the next to the last refueling contact before Robbins and Jones started off on the last day of their trip to Tokyo.

Weather conditions, which had been bad between Fairbanks and Nome, were improving as the two ships, the trim white Tokyo-bound monoplane and the large tri-motor refueling ship maneuvered over this cdy.

Nome Is Surprised

WORD of the sudden termination at Solomon, 30 miles east of here, early today, of the Seattle-Tokyo flight attempt of Reg. L. Robbins and H. S. Jones, Texas aviators, was received with surprise here.

Robbins and Jones put their monoplane "Port Worth" on the Solomon beach at 3:50 a. m. (8:50 a. m. C. S. T.).

Someone had been siphoned from the tri-motor to the monoplane here the ships headed over the Bering sea, the Port Worth presumably for the coast

Justice and Sigler, Athens attorneys, counsel for the defendant, were in Corsicana Thursday conferring with their client. Applications were filed for the summoning of twenty-three witnesses for the defense by the attorneys after a conference with Douglas who is being held in the Navarro county jail. State attorneys had previously filed application for the summoning of forty-four witnesses.

This case was recently transferred from the district court of Henderson county, Athens, to the local court, by District Judge E. F. Dent on a writ of venue when the case will called for trial last month.

Hawkins Scarborough, judge of the thirteenth judicial district court here, called the summons morning of fifty special veniremen in each case for Monday.

The court and attorneys are of the opinion that no difficulty will be encountered in the procuring of a jury in Navarro county should the case go on trial.

Monday will be the first day of the criminal portion of the July term of court and the Douglas cases are the first cases on call. No intimation has been given as to which of the cases will be tried first.

The prosecution will be handled by C. G. Miller, Navarro county attorney, and District Attorney Greenwood of Athens.

A RAY OF SUNSHINE

The United States, in the opinion of those who may be considered best able to interpret financial statistics, stands as a nation awaiting some accredited signal to make a great industrial and commercial advance. The uncertainty and restraint of the so-called depression have had the salutary effect of affording time for debt-paying, while the hesitancy to make investments or to enter upon business enterprises, has resulted in a tremendous increase in the volume of savings.

"So far this year," says Hugh Bancroft, New York financial writer, "we haven't been buying very much, but we have been getting out of debt very fast. From Oct. 1, 1929, to April 1, 1931, 18 months of depression, we have been absorbing $550,000,000 net of new securities each month, and have been paying off loans on securities at the rate of $400,000,000 a month. It seems clear that we are individually saving and getting out of debt at a remarkable rate."

The same phenomenon is commented upon elsewhere by Howard Biddulph, newly elected president of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks. "When we consider," said he, "that about 13,000,000 people have almost $10,000,000,000 of deposits in mutual savings banks, with a further sum of $18,000,000,000 of savings in commercial savings banks, it is plain that the American people have in their savings alone a great reservoir of liquid capital. I believe this frame of mind will provide the basis to begin anew. We should look to the soundness of recovery rather than speed."

THE WORST IS OVER

Economic gains of a definite character are being registered throughout the world as the year enters upon its second half. Business leaders everywhere are heartened.

Domestic improvement has been greater than abroad, but throughout the world the results of preparation for a business revival have begun to show. But it must not be expected that normally prosperous conditions will become evident immediately, because the distress wrought by the depression left wounds too deep to be cured in a day.

Optimism and pessimism are not to be found today in the same places in which they dwelt just before the market crash. It is the little fellow who is pessimistic now; and the big fellow who is flushed with optimism and hope. The department of commerce, the federal treasury department, the department of agriculture, the federal reserve board and Roger Babson are now cast in the role of Pollyanna.

If the darkest hour is just before the dawn, then the dawn is due. And if conditions are always worst just before they show improvement, then the present improvement is evidence that the worst of the depression has been seen and lived through.

Will the United States be spared another winter of unemployment and poor business? It can escape. Mills that have been idle for years are working, bumper crops are assured, the financial situation is improving and the government has unfolded some plans that promise immediate relief.

About the most expensive thing on earth is too much economy.

JUST FOLKS

THE FOOLISH FISHERMAN
 There was a foolish fisherman who sat beneath a tree upon the river bank and kept his rod across his knee. His face was long and solemn and great furrows lined his brow. And this he sadly said to me: "Teh fish aren't biting now."

"Why don't you bait your hook?" said I. "The stream is flowing by. You might perchance catch something here in only a few minutes. You have the rod, the line, the hook—just turn your tackle loose. And fish the stream for all you are worth." He muttered: "What's the use?"

"My neighbors tried a month ago, they all came back at night. And said they'd fished the stream for miles and couldn't get a bite. I hear it everywhere I go; round here all folks agree. The fishing isn't near as good as what is used to be."

"There must be fish in here," I said. "Yes, maybe one or two. But I'm not going to work all day and only get a few. I'm going to sit beneath this tree and wait until I know. The fish are biting here the way they did three years ago."

STRAWS ON THE WIND

Senator Dwight W. Morrow has always been regarded as a model of sane conservatism. His services in Mexico when to a charge of one of the most difficult of all American diplomatic posts at a time of unusually trying complications, reflected a quality of genius.

Mr. Morrow now stands in Washington as a new type of statesman—a man of wealth with genuinely democratic sympathies. With David Baird, Jr., republican nominee for governorship of New Jersey, Mr. Morrow is now said to be preparing an election platform which, in its social and political implications, may yet have a profound effect on politics of the country. This platform will demand the repeal of the eighteenth amendment in the name of Jersey republican.

Hitherto, the conservatives of the republican party in New Jersey have been dry. The party has been dry. Under the leadership of Mr. Morrow it went part wet. Now under the leadership of Mr. Baird and Mr. Morrow it is preparing to demand the repeal of federal dry laws and a return to states' rights in all matters bearing on the regulation or prohibition of the liquor traffic.

The contention behind this demand is that federal prohibition isn't workable and that, in the future, the federal government should limit itself to extending all possible aid to states that wish to establish and enforce prohibition within their own boundaries.

The only way to make it rain is for a writer to get up something funny, for publication a week later, about how dry it is.

ACCIDENT PREVENTION RESTS WITH INDIVIDUALS.

During 1930, according to the National Safety Council, America's accidental death toll reached a total of 99,000 lives—the highest annual figure on record.

The motor vehicle toll—33,000 lives—was highest, closely followed by 30,000 deaths in homes. It is said that three billion dollars is a modest estimate of the direct cost of accidents for the year.

The United States has the highest accident toll of any country in the world—principally due to automobiles. Carelessness and ignorance are genuine menaces to the health and happiness of the nation.

Only in the case of school children has any definite reduction been made. Safety education in schools has not only prevented current accidents, but it instills a safety message that is carried through life. During a period when accidental deaths to persons of all ages increased twenty-eight percent deaths among children under fifteen dropped 2.3 percent.

Every person has the power to prevent accidents—and unless he uses that power, nothing in the world can stop the toll from rising.

The monkey is nobody's fool. He doesn't record the exploit of a few killers and call that the history of his race.

Look Well Before Shooting

TRADE WITH POLAND.

Secretary Stimson and Ambassador Filipowicz have signed at Washington a treaty of friendship, commerce, and consular rights between Poland and the United States based on the most-favored-nation principle. This principle is the cornerstone of American commercial policy in the foreign field and as long as foreign tariff legislation is in accordance there will be no Washington protest against any duties, however high, levied against imports from this country. This was emphasized only recently in an exposition of the official attitude toward the new Canadian tariff.

The United States has an important place in Polish trade, coming in normal years after Germany as the chief source of Polish imports and the chief market for Polish exports. A large area of present-day Poland was part of Germany before the war and economic tie-ups have been to a great degree unaffected by political changes.

The department of commerce figures show direct American exports to Poland in 1929 amounting to $16,400,000 and imports of $4,850,000. But Polish statistics show importations from America amounting to $43,000,000. The explanation is that American trade with Poland is largely indirect, chiefly through Germany. Thus cotton, which accounts for more than one-half of the importations from the United States according to Polish statistics, does not appear as a leading item in the American statistics. Lard, goat and kid leather and motor vehicles—the latter item running in value to $1,941,000, are among the leading American exports to Poland. Furs, hides and skins are among the principal American imports from Poland.

PRICE-CUTTING POPULAR

Since congress, after prolonged debate, defeated the Kelly-Capper bill legalizing anti-price-cutting contracts between manufacturers and merchants, the federal trade commission has ascertained by direct inquiry that manufacturers are not interested in such protection. Sixty-one per cent of the 691 interrogated said they were neither for nor against the plan which would permit them to fix prices for their products at the store.

Price-fixing of this order is advocated for the protection of the independent merchant against chain stores and other cut-price stores, but a law such as the Kelly-Capper measure would be futile without the consent, and active cooperation of the manufacturers. The government cannot compel the manufacturers to bind the merchant to a fixed price.

Some manufacturers favor price-maintenance in the abstract, but do not want it applied to their own products. Wholesalers are reported as favoring the plan, while the retailers are divided, chain stores, department stores and some dry goods stores opposing it.

Price-cutting gives the heavy buyer an advantage over the small independent merchant who cannot quicken his turnover by low prices and whose overhead is higher, but on the other hand it is a trade stimulant of which even the smallest independent merchant avails himself frequently and which has proved a life saver for business generally during the present depression.

In the campaign to "humanize Hoover," Dr. Boone, his personal physician, told an audience of women that the country is "tremendously blessed" in having Mr. Hoover as a leader in the present economic situation. This is the first time we had heard that one.

Governor Roosevelt can hatch fallacies faster than any other governor, including Pinchot. His latest "plan" is to have states subsidize newspapers, thus making all racketeering politicians "sacred cows" in every newspaper office.

One politician who isn't crowing "I told you so" is Senator Jim Watson, of Indiana. A year ago he prophesied the return of prosperity within a year if the Grundy tariff bill passed.

We thought for a while we had a murder mystery novel solved the other night when the victim, on page 31, led back a low spade, his partner's bid being diamonds.

TAKE A TIP FROM GANDHI

Mr. Gandhi, it is reported, when he goes to London as India's representative at the second round table conference will live in a garret, drink goat's milk, and appear before the king barefooted and clothed in a loin-cloth. If the weather becomes cold, he will wrap his figure in a cloak or blanket. But he will not dress like a westerner nor live like a westerner.

No doubt the mahatma in doing this is without thought of self-advertisement. It may be that he senses that a loin-cloth will free him from London banquets, and that a diet of fruit and goat's milk is also a protection from time-wasting entertainments and an unwelcome social pressure.

It might be well if some of our reformer-statesmen who go to Washington with ideals and programs and fall under the influence of the social lobby should try going without shoes and subsisting on oatmeal or some other simple food. They might be ridiculed as Gandhi has been; but if they had the real stuff, they would find their eccentricities a great aid in their battle.

If it takes a woman nation long to pass a shop window full of hats and gowns how long does it take a fisherman to pass a window display of fishing tackle?

With "vest pocket cruisers" abroad, 53 army posts closed here, etc., prospects of holding the next world war on a Tom Thumb lot were never so bright.

KATHRYN GAGE BECOMES BRIDE OF HORACE J. M'AFEE

A very quiet home wedding but one of special interest to a large circle of friends was that at high noon Monday, July 6, when Miss Kathryn Gage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gage, became the bride of Horace J. McAfee, son of Rev. and Mrs. J. McAfee of Kereens. The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the Methodist church at Kereens. Following a trip to Houston, Galveston and other points south, Mr. and Mrs. McAfee will return for a month's stay before sailing from Galveston the middle of August for their home in New York City.

The home was decorated in a variety of summer garden flowers. The bride wore a dinner dress of blue and white chiffon, long white kid gloves, white moire slippers and crystal beads. She carried a point lace handkerchief, a family heirloom, and her flowers were pink gladioli and Shasta daisies attached to a point lace fan, another much prized, family heirloom.

Out-of-town guests were Rev. McAfee and wife, their two sons, Ensign Stuart McAfee, U. S. N. who left Monday night for San Francisco, Calif. to join his ship, the U. S. S. Oklahoma, and Lt. Verne and their daughters Louine and Mary Burk of Kereens and Mrs. J. E. Dechard of Dallas, aunt of the bride.

This marriage is the happy culmination of a romance begun in S. M. U. in 1928 when both were students there. The bride, a graduate of the class of 1925 was valedictorian of the class, and received her B. A. degree in S. M. U. in three years. After getting her masters degree in Columbia University, she taught history and social science in the Junior High school here.

Mr. McAfee received his degree in law from S. M. U. and his masters degree from Columbia University in 1929 and is connected with the law firm of Simpson, Thatcher and Bartlett.

The bride's going away gown was of navy blue georgette with brown accessories.

W. A. Bonner Host to July Fourth Party
 WORTHAM, July 7.—(Sp.)—On July 4, more than 200 relatives and friends came from Oklahoma, Dallas, Corsicana, Steward Mills, Streetman, Wortham, Fairfield, Mexia, Teague and Palestine to enjoy the day at the home of W. A. Bonner, two miles northeast of Steward Mills. Long tables arranged to the trees old-fashioned style in the shady oak grove in front of the home, served excellent barbecued meats and "accessories," together with all good eats that come from picnic baskets. Greetings and hospitality dispensed by Mr. Bonner at this, one of his annual affairs of years and years standing, measured equally with any of the former occasions with added pleasure and joy that is always treasured with happy remembrance by those fortunate enough to be numbered with Mr. Bonner's friends.

Stamps Quartet to Sing Friday Night
 The V. O. Stamps quartet of Dallas will be heard in a program of specialty numbers as well as sacred and popular songs at the I. O. O. F. Home Friday night. Freddie Martin, the 14 year old musical marvel, will also be heard. Navarro county singers are bringing the quartet here and a free will offering will be taken to help defray the expenses, it has been announced.

of Siberia and the refueler for Solomon beach to take on additional gasoline.

The refueling plane then was expected to follow the Fort Worth to the Siberian side of Bering Strait for the final transfer of gasoline.

NOME, Alaska, July 9.—(P)—Flying through the worst weather they have thus far experienced on their 5,100-mile non-stop refueling flight, the plane from Seattle to Tokyo, Reg L. Robbins and Harold S. Jones passed over Nome from Fairbanks early today, took on fuel and pressed on into a cloud bank over the Bering Sea.

The Fort Worth was refueled over Solomon beach, the weather here was more and Pilot Jimmie Mattern of the tri-motored mother ship landed here to load for another contact over the Bering Sea or Siberia.

Refueling contacts were made between Solomon and Fairbanks as the planes were slowed by poor visibility and clouds pressed the ceiling low.

Although clouds were hanging almost to the wave tips as the Fort Worth headed westward, the weather was improving.

The trans-Pacific plane and its refueler appeared over Nome at 2:10 a. m. (7:10 a. m. C. S. T.) and got away an hour and twenty minutes later. They had averaged only about 70 miles an hour on the 520 mile stretch from Fairbanks to Nome.

When the planes headed across the Bering Sea the Fort Worth was 26 hours 33 minutes out of Seattle and had covered about 2,100 miles of her route.

Tokyo still was some 3,000 miles away.

On leaving Nome the fliers had used nearly half of their 550 mile fuel supply and had covered a little more than one-third of their route.

As the Fort Worth headed westward the refueler settled to the field here and the mechanics immediately began loading her with gasoline for the trip over the Bering Sea and Siberia.

Mattern said he was not sure where the next refueling contact would be made or when.

Reach Nome Late.

NOME, Alaska, July 9.—(P)—The monoplane Fort Worth passed over here at 2:10 a. m. (7:10 a. m. C. S. T.) today, completing about 2,100 miles of its projected 5,100 mile non-stop refueling flight from Seattle to Tokyo.

The trans-Pacific plane was accompanied by its refueling ship, both headed directly west across Bering Strait.

The planes appear out of a heavy fog bank lying to the east, with clouds of Nome's citizens assembled to await them. Over the sea to the west good visibility faced them.

On the 520 mile stretch from Fairbanks, the planes made a flying speed of about 70 miles an hour. They were sighted here seven hours 27 minutes after the Fort Worth first soared over Fairbanks.

During that time a refueling was successfully completed and the foggy weather undoubtedly also allowed them down.

Refueling Contact

Made at Fairbanks

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, July 9.—(P)—Refueled and apparently running smoothly, the monoplane Fort Worth sped toward the Bering sea today after having covered about one-third of its projected 5,100-mile non-stop flight from Seattle to Tokyo.

Reg L. Robbins and H. S. Jones, the Fort Worth's crew, were close to their schedule when they soared over Fairbanks at 7:33 o'clock (11:33 p. m. central standard time) last night, having flown about 160 miles in 17 hours 33 minutes. They had estimated their time to Fairbanks at 15 to 17 hours.

In its first contact with refueling plane, flown by James J. Mattern and Nick Greener, the Fort Worth took aboard 200 gallons of gasoline soon after its arrival over Fairbanks.

Approaching here from the south, the white monoplane was met by an escort of three planes, with the refueler waiting on the ground until the monoplane had circled twice over the city. No messages were dropped and the refueler, with 572 gallons of gas aboard, got into the air slowly.

After brief maneuvering by the planes a man believed to be Jones appeared from a cockpit in a refueling plane, to take on more gasoline before continuing across the Bering sea to Siberia for the third and final refueling.

With the completion of the Seattle-Fairbanks lap, the highest mountain ranges to be encountered have been flown over by the aviators.

Weather reports said no disturbances were to be found south of Japan on the projected course of the Fort Worth.

The flight from Puget Sound, lengthened because of the inland route over British Columbia and Yukon territory, was completed

AGED PARENTS OF ROBBINS' FLYING MATE PROMISE TAKE FLIGHT WHEN SON RETURNS

By LUTH BALDWIN COWAN
LONG BEACH, Ind., July 9.—(P)—Keeping a vigil by a radio in a little lake-side cottage listening to reports of the Seattle-Tokyo non-stop flight, a gray-haired couple, who have always shied at flying themselves, looked at each other and made a promise:

"If our boy does a good job—lands in Tokyo, we'll go."

The boy they referred to was Harold S. Jones, who with his fellow Texas aviator, Reg L. Robbins, is winging his way in the Seattle-Tokyo flight.

"Yes," interrupted the elder Jones with a good natured grumble, "most all we know we read in the papers."

The page double-spaced type-written letter continued in the tone of one detailing a casual week-end trip.

"We expect to make it in 55 hours but don't worry if we don't get there in time. We are carrying a month's supply of food and if we are forced down we'll make out way to a fishery."

"Will cable you from Tokyo?"

"My cable you from Tokyo," said his mother, closing the scrap book. Her blue eyes were steady and brave, yet her sensitive slim fingers toyed with her beads and beads would wander out over Lake Michigan.

The elder Jones came up and put his arm around her shoulder.

"Sure, mother, they'll make it," confidence beamed in his voice. "And when he comes to see us, we will go up, eh?"

"Yes," she replied softly—and then with a laugh, "certainly we will, father."

near schedule time despite head winds in Eastern Alaska.

Head winds and lowering ceilings lay ahead on the 520-mile hop to Nome, weather reports said.

But the old woman encountered some headwinds yesterday over Northern British Columbia and Yukon territory.

The flight of the monoplane yesterday was reported by numerous towns and cities with White Horse and Coffee Creek in the Yukon territory and McCarthy, 90 miles south of here, chronicling its advance in the evening hours and door were closed between Seattle and Fairbanks.

The Fort Worth had flown 550 hours before taking off from Seattle and making her run to Tokyo.

The plane does not carry a radio and reports of its progress beyond the Bering sea may be few.

Pair Hardy Airmen

Man Refueling Ship

FORT WORTH, July 9.—(P)—A pair of hardy airmen are J. J. (Jimmy) Mattern, of San Angelo, Texas, and Nick Greener, 28, of Fort Worth, the crew of the tri-motored refueling ship en route to Fairbanks and Nome, Alaska, to refuel the monoplane "Fort Worth" on the attempted flight of Reg L. Robbins and H. S. Jones.

Mattern earned to Japan, a civilian, seven years ago in San Diego, Calif. After two years of barnstorming, he enlisted in the army air corps and spent most of the next three years in Hawaii, Alaska and the Orient.

Later, he flew privately in California, working as a "double" in such motion pictures as "Lilac Time" and "The Angels," when he became associated with the Stinson Aircraft corporation. Subsequently, for a year he was engaged in flying refrigerator planes from Brownsville, Texas, to Mexico City. More than a year ago he became chief pilot of the Cronwell Air Lines, flying from San Angelo to San Antonio, and continued that work until the line was discontinued recently. He was engaged as chief pilot for the Apollo Oil company of San Angelo, which granted him a leave of absence for the present flight. His wife lives in San Angelo.

Nick Greener, who was assigned to handle the hose on the refueling ship, has been employed by Robbins as a mechanic for more than a year. He has about 75 hours of flying time to his credit but is not a licensed pilot.

A native of Mississippi, Greener was an automobile mechanic at Magnolia, Miss., before engaging in aviation as service superintendent for the Texas Flying Service. He accompanied Robbins on a barnstorming tour last year as mechanic and "spicer."

Watching Closely

FORT WORTH, July 9.—"It won't be long now!" This was the cheerful exclamation of Mrs. Reg Robbins Thursday morning, when she was notified that her husband and his companion, H. S. Jones, had had their Tokyo-bound monoplane successfully refueled in the vicinity of Nome and were on their way to the Orient.

"It was the refueling that was worrying us all the most," she said, "and now that that's over successfully, it won't be long until the Fort Worth is set down in Tokyo."

Despite the anxious strain of the past few days, Mrs. Robbins was gay and laughing.

She rather hopes her husband will fly back from Tokyo, instead of taking boats and train. "He who is in Akron, O., on business. In a conspicuous place on the living room table was a new red leather scrap book.

Pasted on the front page was the first definite news the parents had of their son's proposed flight. It was a letter written Monday night just before they left Fort Worth.

The letter began:

"Dear mama,

"I suppose by now you have read in the newspapers that Robbins and I are planning to fly from Seattle to Tokyo."

"Yes," interrupted the elder Jones with a good natured grumble, "most all we know we read in the papers."

The page double-spaced type-written letter continued in the tone of one detailing a casual week-end trip.

"We expect to make it in 55 hours but don't worry if we don't get there in time. We are carrying a month's supply of food and if we are forced down we'll make out way to a fishery."

"Will cable you from Tokyo?"

"My cable you from Tokyo," said his mother, closing the scrap book. Her blue eyes were steady and brave, yet her sensitive slim fingers toyed with her beads and beads would wander out over Lake Michigan.

will get here quicker that way," she said with a laugh.

Robbins' folks back home" in Everman—Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Robbins, his parents; Rev. Gray Robbins, his grandfather; and his mother and sisters were keeping in touch with the flight by long distance.

Reg's father never thought much of his son's flying ambition, he revealed. That is, not until young Robbins set a new endurance record two years ago. After that the elder Robbins took his first airplane ride and had been an aviation enthusiast ever since.

Then all reiterated their confidence that "the boys" would reach Tokyo on schedule. They were especially confident when informed that "the boys" had successfully completed their second refueling and headed across the Bering Sea.

Another who showed great interest in the flight was the sister of Robbins' "buddy" on another venture; she was Miss Cora Kelly, sister of Jim Kelly, who is a "boy" in Robbins' company on his endurance record flight.

and water as well as of oil and gas. He had said the railroad commission had too many other duties.

Governor Sterling mentioned no subject other than conservation of natural resources in his call. However, it was manifestly clear that he would submit congressional redistricting.

Texas is permitted three additional congressmen under the recent reapportionment but the legislature at its regular session will be unable to agree on what sections of the state would receive them.

Very few general subjects and only "absolutely necessary" local bills will be submitted, the chief executive said.

Waste Natural Resources

In his call, the governor pointed to the "deplorable condition in Texas on account of the great waste of our natural resources, particularly in oil and gas."

He said that "citizens from every section of this state as well as a great number of the members of the legislature be convened."

Bills to give the regulatory commission power to limit production to demand and to permit the sale of oil on a lease basis, the validity of conservation laws is being decided in the courts were expected to be introduced. Under present laws, the mere filing of a production suit paralyzes the state.

A bill to prevent production over market demand was introduced during the regular session but died on the calendar.

Known as the Howley bill, it expressed the opinion that the governor's "natural resources" call embraced soil conservation and that a cotton acreage reduction bill would be again offered. A bill of that nature died on the calendar in the regular session.

The regular session of the 42nd legislature ended May 23 after lasting 151 days.

GERMANY REPORTED SEEKING NEW LOAN FOR STABILIZATION

they were without information as to the purpose of his visit.

BERLIN, July 9.—(P)—Germany is reported to be seeking an international loan of two billion marks on the strength of her nationwide "credit front" to restore confidence in her financial status.

Financial circles believed today that Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, would go to London shortly to arrange details, although this was neither confirmed or denied officially.

The emphasis at a meeting with the press that the scope of Germany's credit was not limited by the 500,000,000 mark guarantee underwritten by a thousand of the Reich's strongest firms.

"The 500,000,000 has the same relation to the syndicate's effectiveness," he said, "as an ordinary bank's capital stock has to its capacity for extending credit."

The members of the syndicate represent assets exceeding 20,000,000,000 marks.

The operation of the syndicate's guarantee is described in a government circular. It provides that each semester the gold discount bank will notify the governing board of any credit losses to be made good. Each of the members will be required to contribute in proportion to the responsibility it assumed.

Assist German Loan

NEW YORK, July 9.—(P)—With Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank visiting London today to discuss further credits for Germany, Wall Street heard that the Federal Reserve Bank of New York would participate in the operation.

The amount of the new credit might total $300,000,000, including the $100,000,000 credit recently provided by the Federal Reserve Bank, the Bank of England, the Bank of France and the Bank for International Settlements, according to unofficial Wall Street reports.

One of the pressing difficulties of Germany is the enormous outstanding volume of short term credits. Long term financing would be highly desirable to prevent frequent recurrent tension whenever there is some sort of international economic or political upsurge.

However, the bond market is not sufficiently strong to encourage the floating of such an issue. On the other hand, central banks will be disinclined to extend credit to the Reichsbank for terms longer than six months. To do otherwise would interfere with their principle of non-interference in the affairs of the banks of their countries.

fall, and whether or not the power to suspend the sentence without Fall's presence.

District Attorney Rover asked Hogan if he would consent to have the sentence amended and Fall's counsel replied he would have to consult his client.

Hogan said there was a strong possibility that the humid climate of Washington would cause Fall's tuberculosis to become active. He pointed out that Justice William Hitz, who presided at Fall's trial in 1929, said then that he would suspend the sentence if it were to be executed immediately, in view of the former cabinet officer's physical condition.

Fall, former secretary of the interior was convicted of receiving a bribe from Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate.

Pomerene said Fall could serve his sentence in the El Paso jail. Fall went to the Texas city some time ago from his home in Three Rivers, New Mexico.

The prosecutor said he did not think there were any prisons in New Mexico which could be used but that the El Paso inmate was especially favorable to a man in Fall's physical condition.

SEEK NEW LINE PERMIT

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 8.—(P)—The Gulf and West Texas railroad company today asked the interstate commerce commission for permission to construct near Guadalupe river a line to Fredericksburg, Texas.

Several persons about the capitol expressed the opinion that the governor's "natural resources" call embraced soil conservation and that a cotton acreage reduction bill would be again offered. A bill of that nature died on the calendar in the regular session.

The regular session of the 42nd legislature ended May 23 after lasting 151 days.

Several trees were reported blown down and a few outhouses damaged. The roofs were damaged on several houses over the county and the fruit was blown from trees. No one was reported injured in the rural districts.

The rain was not general enough to be of a great benefit to corn, although it served to detour the atmosphere and stop the deterioration of the crop and will enable it to hold up several days longer.

In the sections where the rain was heaviest a fair corn crop is almost assured. Other feed crops were also benefited. Cotton, though not needing rain, will be kept growing.

Heavy Rain at Chatfield.

The heaviest rain was reported in the Chatfield, Roane, and Powell communities, and a strip of territory just east of Corsicana. In the city of Corsicana .38 of an inch fell but considerable moisture was reported in the places mentioned above.

Embouse, Barry, Rice and other places in the northern section of the county reported a good rain while Blooming Grove, Frost, Davenport, Richland, Kerns and others reported only a heavy shower.

The heaviest damage was reported in Wortham where a warehouse that was being torn down by the wind and rain was blown over and other garden crops were also heavily damaged in that area. Only a light rain was reported in that section of the county.

YOUTH NAMED IN

ARSON INDICTMENT

THURSDAY MORNING

GRAND JURY TO MAKE VIGOROUS INVESTIGATION OF COUNTY FIRES

Doyle Nash was named in an indictment returned Thursday afternoon by the Navarro county grand jury for arson in connection with the burning of a house here at an early hour Tuesday morning. The house was reported as the property of W. J. McAdams and was located at 805 West Eleventh avenue.

Nash was arrested Tuesday near Wortham by city and county officers after an investigation had been conducted by Police Chief Will S. Knight and Fire Chief Elmer Keith.

The accused man was still in the Navarro county jail early Thursday afternoon. He had been served with a copy of the indictment returned by the investigators, officers reported.

County Attorney Cleo G. Miller had not definitely set the case down for trial early Thursday afternoon, but indicated that it would be tried during the present term. Court attaches said that they did not know whether the amount of bail required had been set by District Judge Hawkins Scarborough.

County Attorney Miller stated Thursday that the present Navarro county grand jury would conduct a vigorous investigation relative to numerous fires in Navarro county recently, which are thought to have been of incendiary origin.

IN MEMORY OF LITTLE CHARLES DANIELS, JR.

On the evening of June 23, 1931, about 7 o'clock God's death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Daniels of Corsicana, and took away the spirit of their darling little Junior.

Junior was sick only a short time. He was about four years old and was loved by all who knew him.

Oh, how they miss him, how hard to give him up, but must say Thy will be done. Weep not for him who was suffering so much pain but now is at rest not for a short time but through all the ceaseless ages of eternity. Let's not wish for him back but live such a life as to meet our little darling in the sweet beyond.

He leaves a heart broken mother and father, two sisters and a little brother, two grandmothers and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn their loss. He was laid to rest in the Oakwood cemetery beneath a canopy of beautiful flowers.

We had a little treasure once, he was our joy and pride, we loved him Oh, perhaps too well, for soon he slept and died. Thou art gone our precious darling, never more canst thou return, thou shalt sleep a peaceful slumber till the resurrection morn. A precious one from them has gone, a voice they loved is still, a place is vacant in their home which never can be filled.

Lord give them strength their loss to bear and lend them in the heavenly way. Oh may they meet their baby there.

We know not why sadness must befall, we know not when that mighty voice may call. You will all be sad and lonely without him but think of him as an angel leading you to that great beyond where he is waiting to welcome us one by one as we are gathered home.

Written by his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hardin, Purdon, Texas, R. R. No. 2.

DROUGHT CONDITIONS IN SEVERAL SECTIONS NATION REACH CRITICAL STAGES

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(P)—Drought conditions in the south-east, centering in Georgia, and in the southwest, centering in Oklahoma, were reported by the weather bureau today to have reached a critical stage.

The southeast drought embraces considerable part of Alabama and eastern Tennessee, while in the southwest, northern Texas and western Arkansas have become seriously dry.

Some Georgia sections reported the driest June in more than 50 years. Cotton growth in that state, the bureau said, is mostly at a standstill because of dryness, with plants small and blooming at the top.

The bureau said that generally speaking the country from the Appalachians to the Rocky mountains has had below normal rainfall for four months, from March to June, but the amounts have nevertheless exceeded the rainfall during the 1930 drought.

Rains during the week brought substantial relief to much of the bureau said that as a result of the increased moisture and lower temperatures, conditions in many of these states have been markedly improved, especially minor crops, pastures, and later small grains. The rains came too late, however, to afford much relief to spring wheat in northwestern and southwestern North Dakota and crops on dry land farms in eastern Montana.

Corn was reported in exceptionally good condition in the main producing sections but in the southwest, especially in Oklahoma, the situation was said to be becoming serious with considerable damage imminent. Oats have been damaged in the upper Mississippi valley by the excessive heat. The bureau said cotton needs rain in the northwestern and southeastern sections of the belt, but otherwise it has made satisfactory progress.

In the Atlantic area from North Carolina northward, the bureau said, conditions remain largely satisfactory, although some sections, especially parts of North Carolina, Virginia and New York are becoming dry.
